GRAY OF 233 DRIVER OF MONTH

President Leo Bauer and other officers and members of Teamsters Local Union 233, Indianapolis are proud of their Brother Frank Walter Gray, meat truck driver for Kingan & Co., who has been named Driver of the Month for June by the Indiana Motor Truck Assn.

Brother Gray, 32 and a war veteran, lives at 815 Main street, Shelbyville.

The act which won him the IMTA honor was saving the life of a South Bend traffic accident victim.

For this he was honored also with a life-saving certificate by the Indianapolis Safety Council, as reported in the press and "The International Teamster."

According to these reports the certificate was presented to Gray by Frank L. Cochran, general chairman of the Safety Council, at a dinner meeting in the U. S. S. Ban-Dee in Ravenswood.

Gray's award was made for the aid he gave 17-year-old John Gillen, nephew of a South Bend assistant chief of police, June 19 while driving his state delivery route.

The youth, who suffered a fractured left leg and a severed leg artery, was aided by a handkerchief tourniquet fashioned by Gray. Hospital authorities said the prompt attention saved the boy's life.

Gray slipped away from the accident scene after police arrived and his identity was determined only through a newspaper picture taken of his first aid action.

Nomination of Gray for Driver of the Month was made by E. B. Mayhew, employment manager of the Kingan company.

LABOR IN ALL-OUT CAMPAIGN TO BEAT CAPEHART

Denouncing the anti-labor record of Senator Homer Capehart as a "disgrace to Indiana," representatives of the Indiana State Federation of Labor, Indianapolis Central Labor Union and the Marion County unit of Labor's League for Political Education discussed plans in the Claypool Hotel, Indianapolis, August 9 for defeating Capehart in the next election.

Charles Swain, driver for Commercial Motor Freight, Columbus, is shown (right) receiving the first claim to be collected by Teamsters Local 694 on the new Over-the-Road insurance plan. The check was presented by President Herman LaMaster in the union office in Columbus. The check represents a sick benefit of three weeks. Mr. LaMaster says that less than one week's time was required by the local union to collect the settlement for Brother Swain. Brother Swain is steward at the Commercial Freight Co. and is doing a fine job.

ELMER BRINER DIES

Officers and members of Local 694 are sorry to learn of the death of Brother Elmer O. Briner, former representative of this local in Crothersville.

Taxi Delegates To State Meet

EVANSVILLE—Taxicab Drivers Local No. 11 has elected William Marshall, president; James Scott, vice-president, and Martin Winger, recording secretary, official representatives to the Indiana State Federation of Labor convention at Indianapolis.

Lloyd Rhoads will be a ILU delegate.

Possible War Put In Contract By Miller, 417

VINCENNES—A unique labor-management contract, with pay raises depending in part on a declaration of war, has been signed by the Bierhaus Wholesale Grocery Co. here with Teamsters Local No. 417.

The two-year contract, according to Charles Miller, business representative of

Building Trades In State Meet

EVANSVILLE—The 33rd annual convention of the Indiana State Building, Construction and Trades council will be held here Saturday and Sunday, August 26 and 27. C. B. Birdsong is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Convention planners say sessions will start at 10 a. m. Saturday.

SAFE MAYFLOWER DRIVERS LISTED

By F. D. OWENS

We congratulate Mayflower driver John B. Riney on completing 10 years of driving without a chargeable accident and for a total of 497,242 miles. That's a lot of times around the world, at the rate of 25,000 miles a trip.

Also, in looking over the reports for July of R. J. Magnus, Aero Mayflower safety director, we see that six van drivers have completed three safe years each, four drivers two years each and eight drivers one year each. Mr. Magnus lists them thus:

Three years—Eugene A. Blunk, Cecil L. Cain, Ernest L. Lignitz, John C. Pulliam, George F. Robison and Walter F. Schelhorn.

Two years—Beverly E. Albert, Hurschel Spangler, Lonnie M. Stanley and Paul M. Sutton.

One year—Joseph Carter, Harry J. Coleman, Robert Farmer, Jr., Jack W. Hyatt, Elmer Profogle, Lora A. Rector, Leonard W. Trout and Joseph C. Waincott.

VOTE TO PROTECT YOUR JOB!

The next session of the Indiana Legislature will meet early in 1951 to make laws affecting every man, woman and child in this state. As always, special interests, led by the Chamber of Commerce, will be there to help the rich get richer and the poor get poorer.

These special interests have their candidates in the open field running for election or re-election to both houses next November 7.

It behooves every working man and woman to find out for himself who the stinker is in his district and then vote against that candidate.

You will need friends in the legislature when bills are introduced to increase living costs and reduce housing facilities, to reduce social security, avoid paying the soldiers' bonus; bills by railroad interests to restrict trucking; bills by professional blue noses to abolish beer and liquor deliveries; bills by labor-haters to go Taft-Hartley one better.

Find out who your friends are among the candidates and vote for them. They will vote to help save your job and standard of living.

Most districts have two candidates for both lower and upper houses, as shown by this incomplete list. If you will attend their political meetings, ask the candidates themselves or consult your district political leaders you should discover the good from the bad.

Note: Dates after candidates' names show years they have served in previous legislative assemblies.

REGISTER! REGISTER!

You must be registered on the books of your election district in order to vote next November 7.

If you voted in the 1948 election and have not moved since then, you are registered.

If you voted in 1948 and have moved since that time you are not registered.

If you failed to vote in 1948 you are not registered. You may have been registered to vote in 1944 or 1946, but election books have been purged of every voter who did not vote in 1948.

If you have turned 21 since the 1948 election you are not registered.

You have until October 9 to register.

Go at once to your nearest registration place in Marion County or to your county court house in most counties outside Marion, and sign up for a vote in the next election. It isn't necessary to announce affiliation with any party. You can be an independent voter if you desire. But be a voter. Do your duty by yourself and your family. Help elect men and women to the Legislature who will make laws for YOUR benefit.

MUNCIE UNION PICKETS HUDSON OIL CO. AS UNFAIR

John Mofield Resigns From 369 To Operate Own Filling Station

MUNCIE—Strike of the Muncie Teamsters (Local 369) against the Hudson Service Station, 2410 South Madison street, continues and pickets inform the gas-buying public that this company is UNFAIR TO ORGANIZED LABOR.

D. E. Mahoney, head of the union, says that the company fired all its best employees for no reason other than the fact that they joined his union. Through attorney Robert M. Malarney the union has brought charges of unfair labor practices with the National Labor Relations Board.

The suit charges that William ZaBelle, Luther W. Smith, H. R. Hawkins, William Hoston and Leo Dubbe were discharged "because of membership in and activities in behalf of Teamsters Local Union No. 369."

MOFIELD BUYS STATION

An entirely different picture is presented at Broadway and Centennial, Muncie, where the City Service station has been taken over by Brother John Mofield, and made 100 per cent union.

In accepting Brother Mofield's resignation as their business representative, members of Local 369 have promised him their patronage, and that goes for his many other friends in this vicinity.

SUNNY ALSO FAIR

Sunny Service Station at 18th and Madison streets, Muncie, and the In and Out Station at Willard and Madison streets, under the same management, are also fair, as recorded in this publication last month, and should be patronized by friends of labor.

MILLION SAFE MILES—FOR SOMEBODY ELSE

Here's a record. Ed Smith has driven heavy hauling trucks for the Indiana Bridge Co. in Muncie for more than 10 years and through more than a million miles of traffic without a chargeable accident. Yet he himself, has never owned a motor car. He doesn't know what he's missed, paying for repairs and for things undid by the man making repairs.

CONTRACTS SIGNED

Teamsters Local 369 has signed new contracts with the Fullhart Sand & Gravel Co. for its ready mixed concrete employees; also the Builders Ready Mixed Concrete Co., giving union wages and working conditions to members involved.

The Delaware Trucking Co. contract has been renewed with a substantial wage increase and welfare clause for members of Local 369.

TRAGEDY HITS SHERIDAN HOME

Officers and members of Teamsters Union No. 138 were saddened to learn of the tragic death recent of Julia Ann Cline, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cline of Sheridan.

The father is employed at the Indiana Condensed Milk Co. a truck of which is said to have struck the little girl when she ran into the street for a ball.

New Contracts for 144

TERRE HAUTE—Teamsters Local 144 reports new contracts with Belden Heating Co. and Crane Co., calling for pay boosts and a pension plan.

Kadlec Signs Concrete Cos.

MICHIGAN CITY—E. J. Kadlec, Teamster business representative, announced the signing of Kringel Ready-mix Concrete Company and the LaPorte Ready-mix to contracts. The Teamsters now have all ready-mix companies signed that come under their jurisdiction.

ICE MEN NAME SELTY

EVANSVILLE—Ice Men's Local 582 of the Teamsters here has elected Dallas Seltz recording secretary succeeding Wilford Tooley who has resigned to drive for a bakery.

MILLER SEES POSSIBLE WAR IN CONTRACT

the union, calls for a guaranteed 48-hour week, six paid holidays with an extra day's pay when a holiday falls in vacation week.

The new contract, which ended a two-week strike, calls for an immediate raise retroactive to last April 7.

The war clause provides for an additional increase if war breaks out between Russia and the United States or Russia and the United Nations. This increase would be retroactive to prior of such a declaration.

If war doesn't break out by April 7, 1951, the union members receive an increase beginning on that date. Subsequently, they will receive an additional hourly boost if war breaks out after April 7, 1951, with the increase retroactive to the declaration of war.

State Labor Conciliator Robert Auttersen was instrumental in ending the dispute and drawing up the acceptable agreement.

Riney, Other Mayflower Men Make Records

Notice: Members of Local 193! There are still some contracts in the city to be negotiated, so watch your bulletin boards for notices.

Brother Chester A. Sokolowski, operator for Mayflower, who broke his leg July 7, will be in the hospital for two months and will be off until the first of the year before returning to work. A number of the drivers have given donations here at Indianapolis and on the road. Anyone who has not been contacted should send a card direct to him, at the Fairview Hospital, LaPorte, Ind.

We are unhappy also to report that Brother Asher Kennedy has been injured in an accident in New York City and is suffering a fractured skull.

The vacation season is about over, so Brothers, watch the school kiddies and remember the slogan, "The life you save might be your own child!"

Mayflower Teamster Says He's Learned About a Fatal Sneeze

By SWEDE CARLBOM

Standing at the side of the road on top of a knoll with a stone mound for a base is a wooden cross outside of Denison, Texas. Parking my van up the road, I walked back and read a plaque at the base: "OLE OLESON DIED HERE 1812—KILLED BY A SNEEZE." Perplexed, I walked off down the knoll and noticed an old blacksmith shop across the road. An old man, evidently the smithy himself, sat on a bench alongside the shop. He waved for me to come over.

"Good day," said he, "I conclude you are interested in knowing about the cross over yonder."

When I said I was, he motioned me to sit down beside him. Then he began to relate how 'way back in 1812 two young and healthy Swedes—Ole and Oscar—landed in New York City from the old country fired with a great spirit of ambition to trek out west to seek their fortunes prospecting for gold. As they were fairly well-to-do, they purchased a covered wagon, a good team of horses, provisions, guns ammunition, a dog and—as an afterthought—an extra horse with saddle.

On a beautiful day in May they crossed the Hudson River on a ferry and began the trek westward. The first months were rather uneventful. They met up with some Indians but they were all friendly and mostly adhered to trading. Slowly they rolled over hills and plains taking turns in driving the wagon and in riding their single saddle horse on short scouting trips. In August they arrived at the border of what is now Oklahoma.

One night, shortly after, they were set upon by a band of outlaws. Ole and Oscar fought a hard battle—but a losing one. As the dawn came creeping over the mountains Ole found Oscar badly wounded with one bullet in his leg and another in his hip. Their riding horse was shot dead, also their dog, and most of their provisions had been looted.

Ole dressed Oscar's wounds and placed him inside the wagon. Somewhat crestfallen, they traveled on. The jolts of the wagon were too much for Oscar. He couldn't stand the pain so they decided to make camp.

That night they were surrounded by a band of hostile Indians who circled the camp and shot flaming arrows at the covered wagon. Ole pulled Oscar to safety as the wagon burst into flames. Then he cut the horses loose, grabbed up his gun and—in the weird light from the burning wagon—picked off as many Indians as came within range. At last, with piercing war whoops, the Indians rode off into the hills.

Morning found the camp in utter desolation. All that remained of the wagon were the iron hubs and axles. Strewn about were dead Indians and horses.

Ole carried Oscar to a puddle of muddy water in a nearby meadow. There he washed and re-dressed Oscar's wounds but alas, it was too late for gangrene had set in. That afternoon Oscar passed through Valhalla gates into Viking heaven. Ole buried Oscar in the meadow.

For days and days Ole walked westward with a heavy heart. Then one night while Ole was asleep a stray Indian stole his gun. The country seemed desolate and unsettled. Ole became feverish from lack of food and water. In a few days, as his strength gave out, he was unable to go any farther.

He finally collapsed on top of a knoll where he lay in the blazing sun. His throat dried up. His tongue became parched. That night he lost consciousness.

Toward morning he came to, with fever shaking his whole body. He scanned the horizon in hope of seeing some human being and with ebbing strength he waved his hat to attract attention.

Late in the day he saw, in the far off distance, what looked to be a human and with feverish eyes he watched the object come closer. Frantically he waved his hat but the effort proved too much and he fell into a coma. Still possessed of the will to live, he felt a soft hand touch his burning brow. He looked up.

A young girl was kneeling beside him. She told a vivid story about how her parents left their homestead over two months ago to get provisions at a far off trading post, leaving her alone at the cabin. How she waited for their return these many weeks but was now convinced that they had been killed by some roving Indians. How she finally decided to go out seeking help.

A glint of hope passed over Ole's face. He pleaded with the girl to try to help him get to her cabin. There, said he, they would start life anew when his strength returned.

With the assistance of the girl and fired with new hope, he managed to straggle along although he crawled most of the way. After a night and a day, they arrived at the cabin.

Ole dropped across the threshold and begged for water. But there wasn't any. The girl told him it hadn't rained for months; the well and creek were bone-dry.

He asked for bread but the last crumb had been eaten weeks ago. He asked for flour but she had scraped the flour barrel several days ago. He pleaded with her to scrape it again, for the sake of her life as well as his. She tried.

Ole could hear the hollow rasping of the empty flour barrel being scraped. As the girl advanced with a cupful of flour, she cupped her free hand over it for fear a whiff of wind would blow some away. An expression of the will to live could be seen in his bulbous eyes. He saw in her hand a means to bring on life and ward off death.

She knelt and placed her dainty hand, holding the flour, close to his swollen parched lips. With an excited and feverish look in his eyes, he opened his mouth. He seemed to hesitate. Then, with a violent shudder, he sneezed and the precious flour was blown out of the girl's hand.

Ole stared in despair at her empty hand and then his head drooped dejectedly to one side. He tried to rise but toppled over and Ole passed—like his buddy Oscar—through the Valhalla gates into Viking heaven. Hence, the wooden cross at Denison, Texas.
